Bellevue Notes

Doctor Mackenzie returned home from the Frank hospital where he has undergone operations.

Mrs. James Lindsey is expected to arrive home from England this week.

The Bellevue members of the Methodist Church wish to thank the Okotoks church members for the money received in aid of the orphans left destitute by the recent explosion.

The enquiry into the cause of the late disaster at Bellevue seems as if it will not be concluded for some time yet.

In the Methodist church Sunday evening Rev. T. D. Jones preached a memorial service to the departed brothers of the local Aerie of the Fraternal Order of Eagles.

Mrs. J. W. Powell wife of manager Powell have moved into the house recently vacated by C. Emmerson.

T. M. Barnett spent the week end at Cardston.

The church was slightly damaged by the gale last week, the doors being broke and a bunch of plaster falling off the roof.

A memorial service took place at Bellevue on Sunday Jan. 8, at 7:30 P. M. in memory of the deceased Eagles. There were a large number present.

Shannon Club Ball

The masquerade ball given on Monday the 2nd, by the Shannon Club of Bellevue was a huge success.

The hall was artistically decorated for the occasion. Festoons of bunting, evergreens and bells lent very gay appearances to the proceedings. About fifty couples were present.

The costumes were very attractive and showed to great advantage in the Grand March with which the dance was opened. There was much speculation as to the identity of the wearers of the costumes and many went unknown until the unmasking which took place at 11:30 P. M.

The ladies prize was carried off by Miss Katie Harp whose dress represented "Night." The Gents prize was awarded to Mr. J. Furehong attired as a Prince.

A tasty supper was then served at 12:30 A. M. and was greatly enjoyed by all present. Dancing to the sweet strains of Kens orchestra was indulged in until the wee sma hours. Great credit is due to the members of the Shannon club for the success of the evening. It is hoped that they will again entertain their acquaintances in the near future.

The worst snow storm that ever visited the Pass occurred this week. Thirty seven inches fell on the level. All the trains were blocked for eighteen hours and the passenger service was much cut up. Everything is now in complete running order.

What Shall I Give the Bride?

ANY woman who has herself received or has watched others receive dozens of clocks and scores of teaspoons—all engraved differently—and multitudes of cut-glass water carafes will never wish to inflict anything of that ilk on a bride again. It is not as if nothing original could be had for love or money; the stores are full of odd and pretty gifts, not too expensive, that need only a little thought on the part of the giver to make them the most welcome among many wedding gifts.

There is the Satsuma rose-jar, for instance, with its brilliant colors contrasted with the dark, burnished metal stand. What prettier gift could there be than this, perhaps filled with the delicate potpourri that our grandmothers loved so well? The sardine dish, with its outer tray for lemon or parsley or salad dressing, or for the fork to rest in, is a lovely bit of cut glass—solid and dignified and simple, and yet not massive or out of harmony with the bride's pretty furnishings. The dish is just about large enough to cover one of the embroidered dollies on the polished table.

A more beautiful present than the mother-of-pearl candelabra cannot well be imagined. As a matter of fact, it is the fringed candle shades alone that are really of mother-of-pearl, but they give its character to the entire piece. The three-part candelabrum itself is of silver, with a cut-glass stand. When white, perfumed Chinese candles are lighted in these, the effect is one of the most fairylike loveliness—and how becoming the soft light will be to your little friend, the bride!

Those little festivities that follow close upon a wedding will require the services of the sandwich dish—cut glass, again, with provision made for two different kinds of sandwiches without "mixing." Really, though, the pattern of the glass is so pretty that it seems a shame to hide it by even the most toothsome of tidbits.

From the orient again and really exquisite is the carved ivory jewel box—a gift for the bride's personal use. (And, by the way, many persons prefer to give presents of this sort—some bit of jewelry or fine lingerie, by which the young wife can specially remember her friend. Besides, all young couples do not go to housekeeping, and it would be well to find this out beforehand.)

The jewel box, as I have said, is a charming gift. It, too, has its dark metal stand, and it is carved in a flower-and-leaf pattern such as only the craftsman of the far east knows how to create. It is lined with padded silk edged with cord.

A return to the fashions of our grandmothers' days is shown again in the quaint cut-glass vase. It is really very graceful and has none of that hideousness which most of us associate with the term "mid-Victorian." It is cut in a close, conventional design, and is a very effective and showy ornament.

The pretty little "double-decker" of silver, applied on glass looks as if it had been designed expressly for those who are to live on "bread and cheese and kisses." For bread and cheese it certainly is, for the upper part holds the succulent Hooquefort or Camembert, and the lower the crisp crackers that are its proper accompaniment. The silver fork comes with the dish.

Silver patterns, spoons on glass make up many other pretty trifles—card trays, perfume bottles, ice bowls with ice spoons, cake dishes, even fascinating little tea-pots. And there are hundreds of other ideas for gifts which these few examples can lead in. Look about and see if you cannot find something more welcome than the berry dish or the china vase.

After all, the very best gift that can be given is money, with which the young couple can get what they please. But if you belong to those of the outer circle, who cannot make such a gift, or have other reasons for so doing, here is a list of suggestions, any one of which, realized, will make the little bride blush and smile with pleasure and appreciation.

Cut Glass Sardine Dish

For Cheese and Crackers

Mother-of-pearl Candelabra

For Devilled Sandwiches

Satsuma Rose Jar

Useful Facts

THE odor of fish—Silver fish forks often retain the odor of the fish, especially of herrings. To prevent this let them stand in a basin of tea-leaves for a few minutes. This will remove the smell. Stains of vinegar, etc., may be removed by rubbing the articles with a little salt.

To clean bamboo furniture—This when dirty may be easily cleaned with a small brush dipped in warm salt and water. The salt prevents it from turning yellow, and the washing makes the bamboo bright. Rub very dry with soft cloth.

To remove the odor of paint—Slice a few onions and place them in a pail of water in the center of the room and leave it for several hours, or plunge a handful of hay into a pail of water.

A useful hint—When putting anything very hot into glass vessels stand them upon a wet cloth and the glass will not crack.

The Odor of Tobacco

THERE is no odor more disagreeable than that of stale tobacco smoke and tobacco ashes. Sometimes it becomes so persistent with it that it becomes hardly possible for delicate persons to breathe in it. Here is a remedy suggested by an Englishwoman who suffered and overcame:

Close the room up well overnight, with doors and windows tightly shut, and leave in it a large pail full of water, with a few wisps of straw. For some reason, the water and straw together absorb the smoke, and even take up the odor of ashes. Needless to say, all discoverable ashes should previously have been removed and thrown away.

After the room is odorless, and a little airing will cool it out and put it again in condition for use.

Successful Cleansers

OTMEAL is the safe remedy for soiled suede gloves in white, pale tan and gray shades. To clean them it is necessary to draw them on and plunge the hands in a small basin of oatmeal, rubbing them, especially the finger tips, the knuckles and wrists, with the meal, and scrubbing the more soiled portions with a very clean nail brush. Finally, they should be dusted with a piece of clean soft flannel.

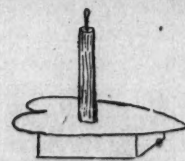

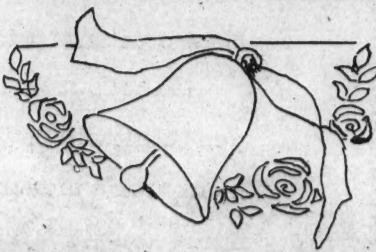

Wash-leather gloves require yellow soap and water which is warm and not hot. Too hot water tends to shrink the skins, and is probably the reason why some people make a poor success of the operation. They should be dried on the hands or on wooden trees if possible, in the sun or close to a fire. Like dannels, the quicker they dry the better.

Powdered sulphur and lemon juice has an almost magical effect upon straw hats which have become sun baked, while pipeclay—such as soldiers use for hats—rubbed over velvet is a useful cleanser.

A Shoe Tip

BEFORE putting on patent leather shoes always rub the surface of the vamp briskly with the warm palm of the hand, thus softening the shoe and rendering it less liable to crack. Many patent leather boots "crackle" all over the first time they are worn when this precaution might prevent the accident. Another method is the gradual warming of the shoes, and it must always be remembered that shiny shoes are never kept in cold places.

PLACE CARDS FOR AN ENGAGEMENT TEA

for a red luncheon or tea.

When the brilliant colors of table decoration glow under candlelight, then indeed is the effect charming. Candelabra are always in order, but the little candle at each place is unique.

The place card that serves for a candle holder also is easily made. Cut out red pasteboard hearts and glue on the lids of small white card boxes purchasable at any art supply department. Punch a hole in the center and pass a candle down into the box. It will be held securely in place by the sides. Upon the heart top place the name of a guest.

Another holder is made of a square of

WHEN Laura announces her engagement to Petrarch it is well to consider those ever-popular little accessories to the decoration of the luncheon table—the place cards.

They should be suggestive of the occasion, and you will notice that roses, touch up the face with pink. Gold paint is good to use on the curls and as tips for the wings. A little verse about love, marriage or Cupid can be written or printed below.

Another place card is the arrow-pointed heart. Trace this and as many others on cardboard as there are guests. The head and tip of the arrow will extend beyond the form; the other lines will be drawn in with a point and each name placed as suggested.

If the idea of flowers be preferred, hearts, cupids and bells are running wild over the page—as they should be. The little cupid with outspread wings at the top of the long card is to be traced by means of carbon paper on ungilded paper. Ink the outline and the five-petaled rose, each portion a heart, is good and very easy. It can be tinted with crayons or watercolors any shade to match the table decorations. A huge one of this pattern is very effective on the center of the table under the bowl of flowers.

For the long place card the arrangement of hearts is extremely easy. Two red ones on a white card and the little string of hearts at each side, also red, are very effective. This idea is good cardboard, cut from each side of which is a heart. The whole shape to cut and the heart bent up on the base and caught by thread around a candle. The guest's name is printed on the side facing the chair.

A garland arrangement of roses and a over and hung on the rim of a glass.

These place cards can be quickly made at home, or if you have a fancy brush and pen and you wish to do a last little favor for Miss Laura, who will soon be Mrs. Petrarch, why not make a set for her farewell luncheon?

Freight Yard

The C. P. R. have almost completed the grading of the central freight yard. Cinders have been spread over the entire yard and a complete road to it is now in existence. This is a great boon to our merchants.

An Excellent Plan

The Canadian Government Annuities system which was approved by unanimous vote of Parliament in 1908, and is available to everyone, presents exceptional advantages to the young or middle-aged who are able to save over a considerable period to secure for their declining years and income free from all possible danger of loss or diminution, and at the lowest possible cost. If the person has a lump sum saved up which he or she could apply on account of the purchase, the cost for remaining years would be reduced to a greater or smaller extent, according to the amount which was paid in the lump sum. For example, a man of 35 wishing to purchase an Annuity of $300 at 60 and having $500 in the Saving Bank which he could apply on account of the purchase in a lump sum could then complete his contract for an annual payment of $38.82, while if the $500 had not been paid he would have had to make an annual payment of $71.04. In the event of his death before 60, his heirs would of course receive back the $500 as well as the annual payments with 3% compound interest; and if he became an invalid or disabled so that he could not earn a livelihood, and the amount that he had paid in would yield him an income of $50 or more, he could draw his Annuity at his then age though he were under 55 or 60. This points out the advantage to a man or woman who has been saving up for the years when they are unable longer to work of immediately transferring any amount which they can spare to their account for the purchase of an Annuity. The amount if left in the Saving Bank at 3% would yield an income far short of the amount which might be required for their maintenance.

The Tariff

Although sweeping changes are not promised by the tariff commissioners now sitting at Washington, yet a distinct lowering of the tariff wall on certain commodities will affect the mining towns of the Pass. The principal item of necessity is coal.

A lowering of the duty on steaming coal is now assured. The mines of Montana, Idaho and Colorado require unlimited supplies of coal and coke. Their greatest and cheapest source lies in the Crow's Nest Pass, a but hostile duty faces the importers. As a result our market is limited and the importer's profit is lowered. To develop and flourish as we should, there must be a lowering of the tariff. For the Liberal party to unheed the call of the west in this tariff controversy is to invite disaster.

Free Thought and Free Action

The growing unrest among the young men in the United States on matters political is fast spreading in the minds of all progressive young Canadians. That all legislation shall be the result of thought of old heads, is now not acceptable to all. Free thought and free action when applied to legislation almost always results in a policy that is in closer touch with the popular will. No legislation should be biased by concerns that control a parcel of the voting power, but based only on the greatest good, without injuring the rights of the minority. The young men of Canada to-day are realising their growing strength. Free action applied to this will strike a chord most responsive.

Too often in the council of a party the opinions of the young are disregarded. In the future these opinions must be recognised or party affiliations will be dismantled and once powerful parties disunited.

The West to-day stands much in need of free thought and free action. We cannot stand for an ultra higher tariff. We must break the bonds and demand reciprocity with our neighbors and relieve the consumer of a heavy burden and a heavy tax. Free action must dominate the policy of the west.

H. Gate, has gone to Hosmer B. C. and will take a position in the Hosmer mines.

Have you a weak throat? If so you cannot be too careful. You cannot begin treatment too early. Each cold makes you more liable to another and the last is always harder to cure. If you will take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy at the outset you will be saved much trouble. Sold by all druggists.

All the matches in the hockey league are "snowed under."

The new school board is elected and away to a good start.

The steam laundry scheme is at last taking a tangible form.

"Doc" Parks will in future dispense rules and regulations on the school board.

With H. A. Parks again in the harness the Board of Trade will sit up and meet regularly.

Uncle Sam wants our coal but he doesn't want our export custom duty. Its collected on the wrong side of the fence.

The ratepayers of the school district of Coleman are to be congratulated upon the election of Messrs. Cameron, Hayshom and Parks, as school trustees for 1911. The school board represents, perhaps, more vital interests than the municipal council.

The newly elected school board should see that the new compulsory school act is carried out to the letter. There are too many cases in Coleman where our youth, who are both physically and mentally unfit for the higher duties of life, pressed to work. Parents should remember that only by education, can the man or woman of the future hope to make a winning race in the competition that invades every walk in life.

Eagles Celebrate

The last night of the old year was well celebrated by the local order of Eagles. A splendid social was given which included a program, refreshment, and a dance. J. Johnson made an efficient chairman for the evening. The marches and May pole dance of the children was roundly applauded.

To Messrs. Benson, Leyshom, Faulkner, Jones, Richardson and Johnson, much credit is due.

Following is the program:

Chorus, "Red Riding Hood" 10 Song W. F. Faulkner Song D. Owen May pole Dance Children Duet Miss C. & M. Liffey Recitation Willie Faulkner Chorus Children Song Isaac Daniels Song T. Leyshom Recitation T. Leyshom Chorus "No one cares for me" Duet Misses Hayshom & Leyshom

Many presents were distributed to the children at the conclusion the large gathering sang "Auld Lang Syne."

H. C. Huehn and his crew of men were in town last week advertising Magic Baking Powder. Mr. Huehn reports business good.

G. T. P Behind the Coal Deal.

Montreal, Jan. 12.—It is believed here that the Grand Trunk Pacific interests are behind the big coal merger which was negotiated by J. W. McConnell, the progressive young Montreal capitalist.

Today Hillcrest common stock jumped to 67, after selling at 39 on Saturday, because of a report that this mine would be included in the merger.

It is understood that the new company, which will go by the name of the Canadian Coal and Coke Co., will bring in a lot of French and English capital.
